Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ.

For over fifty years, the Episcopal Bilingual Schools of Honduras have been recognized for their Christian values, outstanding academic programs, and integrated educational communities. Despite the pandemic and two major hurricanes this past year, our Episcopal schools have continued with classes as they served students virtually, thanks largely to our earlier vision in the implementation of a Microsoft 365 platform.

Even so, the pandemic has had a devastating impact on the finances of these schools. A primary factor has been that many parents have lost employment or have died from COVID. In most of these cases, the surviving spouse is unable to continue paying the tuition for their children.

This loss of revenue for the schools has seriously impacted our ability to pay teachers and provide scholarships for clergy children and other deserving students, which is essential to the mission of the schools. Likewise, the reduction in revenue has impacted the schools' ability to purchase essential eBooks, instructional materials, and technology necessary to continue virtual learning at a high level.

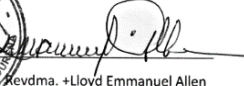

Therefore, I write today requesting your support for the Episcopal Bilingual Schools of Honduras in three primary areas:

1. Become a volunteer online teacher to teach various elementary, middle, and high school courses.
2. Donate new or used laptops computers or tablets (7th generation processor or higher), or other communication devices, eBooks for language arts and technology, equipment for robotics, bio-security equipment, etc.
3. Sponsorships for students whose parents were affected by the pandemic and the hurricanes.

Friends, this has been a difficult year for people in many places around the world. However, we want to remain faithful to God's call for us to provide Christ-centered ethical development as a part of a first-class integrated bilingual education through the Episcopal Schools of Honduras.

Your assistance in any way possible will be greatly appreciated. For information on how to contribute, see the information below.

Ever in Christ's Love,
